The National Institute of Nursing Research (NINR) is presenting a workshop titled "Introduction to Research Grantsmanship for Early Career Nurse Scientists" at the 2011 SNRS 25th Annual Conference on February 16, 2011 (one morning session, one afternoon session). This workshop aims to clarify the National Institutes of Health (NIH) grant application process and provide key strategies for improving NIH grant funding success. Presenters will include NIH funded researchers, Extramural Program Directors, Scientific Review Officers, and Grants Management Specialists. Upon completion of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Determine the best mechanism, Institute designation, and study section for an NIH grant application; Avoid common NIH grant application pitfalls;
- Interpret summary statements generated by the scientific review process;
- Formulate a plan to revise an NIH grant application; and
- Design a research trajectory based on NIH funding opportunities.

Participation in the pre-conference is limited to 40 participants per session (two sessions). The cost for attending the pre-conference is $100 for members, $50 for student members, $175 for nonmembers, and $75 for student nonmembers. Individuals wishing to attend the pre-conference are requested to complete the following application.

Applications due dates are:

- First round of applications is due by November 1, 2010 (notification by December 1, 2010) and the
- Second round of applications is due December 10, 2010 (notification by January 15, 2011).

Individuals interested in attending the pre-conference are urged to submit their application early in order to reserve a place. Registration fees are not required with the application, and may be paid with the annual conference fees.

If you have any specific questions about the Grantsmanship pre-conference please contact Delfie Castro. Please click here to complete the application and email it to Delfie Castro at dcastro@resourcenter.com