Call for Nominations for New SNRS Mid-Career Researcher Award

NOMINATIONS ARE DUE OCTOBER 1st, 2012

SNRS is excited to announce the development of a new Award to recognize Mid-Career Researchers. Nominations are now open for this award to be bestowed at the 2013 Annual Conference in Little Rock, Arkansas in February of 2013.

The purpose of the Mid-Career Award is to recognize the contribution of a member whose scholarly work influences outcomes in nursing practice, nursing education, health policy, or population health. The Mid-Career Award honors a member dedicated to mentoring the development of that scholarly work in the next generation of nurse scholars in the SNRS region. The successful nominee for this award will demonstrate progress in a program of research following doctoral education completed at least 10 years earlier. Any nominee employed in academia will hold a rank of Associate Professor or less.

Nominees must agree to attend the Annual SNRS Conference and SNRS business meeting and awards luncheon. The award recipient will receive a complimentary registration for the Annual Conference, but all other expenses will be the responsibility of the recipient. The award recipient will be honored at the business luncheon and must agree to participate in a conference session to discuss his/her research.

Nominations will be evaluated of the following criteria:

- Breadth, depth, and quality of overall research program that contributes to outcomes in nursing education, practice, health policy or population health
- Research-related dissemination record to appropriate venues to meet award purpose
- Overall impact of research program on the profession
- Impact of research in the SNRS area of the United States
- Influence on nursing research advancement and career development of self and others within the profession
